Color Definitions:

Badger: Typical CVM Pattern, paler body, dark striped head, dark throat, belly, legs and nether areas. May be Gray, Black or Moorit.

Dilute: Typical CVM Pattern but body fleece is largely or nearly white. Common in Moorit badgers, Spotted Badgers.

Spotting: May occur in any color or pattern, from pinto spots to pims, blazes, socks, clown faces, self-patterned.

Pims: Pigmented Multiple Spotting – the multitude of small dots expressed in a generally lighter or white area.

Clown Faced: Large, overrun or excessive blaze or spotting, typically with dark circles around eyes, nose.

Reverse Badger: Dark base color with pale stripes up the face, often bridging the nose. Outer ear edges have white hair, pale throat, lateral strip from elbow to stifle joint. Belly may be dark or light. Can be masked by spotting.

Mouflon: Dark fleece, with pale muzzle, eyes, inner ears, throat, belly and nether regions. Can also overlay badger or be overlaid by spotting.

Reverse Pims: light or white small spots on a dark ground (opposite of Pims).
